

“Game of Thrones Italy - The Project Part 2”

After the success "Game of Thrones Italy - The Project Part1 " achieved online back in 2016, the team decided to produce a sequel of the short film made by Chiara Sapio and Manoj Rollo as their graduation project at the Polytechnic University of Turin.

The video is inspired by Game Of Thrones opening sequence created by Elasic for HBO.

It will take you on a journey through some of the most famous Italian cities that have always played a significant role in the cultural, political and economical life of our country.

In addition to Rome, Naples, Palermo, Venice, Turin and Florence you will also discover Milan since it was highly requested by Italian fans and Taranto, one of the sovereign centers of the Magna Graecia.

You will be able to explore Italy from a new perspective, travelling across 3d digital models of several monuments and buildings, looking like the result of the work of skilled craftsmen.

Every single element is animated, driven by lots of interlocking cogs, just like in Leonardo Da Vinci's machines.

The renovated team is proud to present "Game of Thrones Italy - The Project Part2" with new cities and a brand new look , in the hope of surprising you with its passion and enthusiasm, with a special dedication to all Game of Thrones fans and the staff of Game of Thrones - Italy FB page.
